Hemp From Yucatan.

The shipments of jute and coarse hemp from India have been almost entirely cut off by the war. These fiber substances were used in the manufacturing of bur-lap and twine. The sisal hemp or hencquen, grown in Yucatan, is being experimented with and is proving a satisfactory substitute for many purposes. Yucatan was considered practically worthless land by the early Spaniards and it was not until 1850 that it began to be used for hencquen growing. Within the last ten years this has become a valuable last ten years this has become a valuable product and brings heavy profits to the planters who grow it.

Labor is cheap in Yucatan and the hencquen growers are reaping from 300 to 400 per cent upon their investments. The exports from Progreso, the only seaport of Yucatan, have averaged nearly a million bales annually for four years. The United States purchased nearly $23,000,000 worth of sizal hemp during the year ended June 1, 1915.

Dread of a surgical operation she expected to undergo teday caused Mrs. H. S. Mould, forty, wife of a New York machinery manufacturer, to kill herself at the New Victoria Hotel.
